BIBLE

(Including the Apocrypha of the Old Testament and the Apocryphal books of the Old and New Testaments)

INTRODUCTION

The Library of Congress uses a numerical system of arrangement in providing a ready guide to the Bible or any of its parts. The attention of the user of this catalog is therefore directed to (1) Survey of the Arrangement, (2) Table of the Parts of the Bible and (3) General Index to the Bible, which appear hereafter.

The arrangement of entries indicated in the survey represents the present practice of the Library of Congress in its dictionary catalogs. As these contain main, added, and subject entries provision is made in this survey for many headings which are represented only by added or subject entries. By way of illustration there are no main entries for the Prayer of Manasses among the Old Testament Apocrypha or for the Third epistle of John in the New Testament, but for both there are added and subject entries in the dictionary catalogs.

The entries themselves have been produced over a long period of years and represent an ever-developing cataloging practice. This change in cataloging practice has been necessitated by the ever-growing realization of the problems involved in trying to give an adequate picture of such a voluminous and complex body of literature. As a result, many entries do not represent current cataloging practice. In this reproduction of the entries, the divergences of present-day practice from former practice are principally the following:

- 1.) The inclusion of the names of the original languages, of the date of imprint, of the name of the translation or of the translator in the heading.
- 2.) The placing of such specifications as: For the blind; Harmonies; Lessons, Liturgical; Paraphrases; Selections; Shorthand, uniformly after the name of the language.
- 3.) The use of but one language in the heading in the case of diglot editions.
- 4.) The adoption of special treatment for manuscripts of the Bible, either originals or facsimiles, by use of the word Manuscripts immediately after the heading Bible.

SURVEY OF ARRANGEMENT

[Numbers are used for a ready identification of all entries.]

1. Manuscripts.
2. Whole Bible, by language, A-Z.
- [3. Whole Bible, by subject, A-Z; omitted from this catalog.]
- 4-125. Parts of the Bible, each part by language, A-Z.

GENERAL EXPLANATION OF THE ARRANGEMENT

1. MANUSCRIPTS.

All entries for manuscripts of the Bible are arranged in this catalog ahead of entries for printed editions of the Bible.

An explanation of the special arrangement for the filing of manuscript entries is given on the guide card preceding the entries.

2. WHOLE BIBLE, BY LANGUAGE, A-Z.

The principles observed in arranging the Whole Bible by language are also observed in the arrangement under 4-125, Parts of the Bible.

Arrangement by language

All printed editions of texts of the Bible are arranged in alphabetical order by the name of the language which is always made a part of the entry. In this arrangement editions in the original languages, Hebrew and Greek, are arranged in alphabetical order. Likewise, Polyglot editions, i.e., editions containing the identical text in three or more languages, are arranged in alphabetical order as though the word Polyglot were the name of a language.

[Unlike the form of heading observed elsewhere in this catalog for works similar to the Bible (Koran, Talmud, Vedas, etc.) the name of the original language is made a part of the entry, thus Bible. O.T. Hebrew; Bible. N.T. Greek.]

Examples: Bible. Anglo-Saxon.
Bible. Dutch.
Bible. English.
Bible. French.
Bible. Greek.
Bible. Polyglot.
Bible. Spanish.
 etc., etc.

and likewise:

Bible. O.T. Dutch.
Bible. O.T. English.
Bible. O.T. Hebrew.
Bible. O.T. Spanish.
 etc., etc.

Bible. N.T. English.
Bible. N.T. Greek.
Bible. N.T. Polyglot.
Bible. N.T. Spanish.
 etc., etc.

General arrangement under each language

Under each language for the Whole Bible as well as for any of its parts (4-125) the arrangement is as follows, with editions containing the complete text (a) preceding those whose use or content is modified by specifications (b-g):

- a. Editions containing the complete text.
- b. For the blind [editions whose use requires a knowledge of the system employed, as for instance of Braille or Moon, in English.]
- c. Harmonies [applicable only under the Historical books of the Old Testament, the Gospels, and the Acts and Epistles in the New Testament.]
- d. Lessons, Liturgical [applicable only for selections for liturgical use other than standard series of Epistle and Gospel lessons.]
- e. Paraphrases [thought translations in prose or meter.]
- f. Selections [any excerpts including "short" Bibles, "children's" Bibles, but excluding topical indexes which are entered under the compiler.]
- g. Shorthand [editions whose use requires a knowledge of the system of shorthand employed.]

Whenever the character or content of the text is modified in such a manner, the name of the appropriate specification is added to the entry after the name of the language.

Examples: Bible. English.
Bible. English. For the Blind.
Bible. English. Lessons, Liturgical.
Bible. English. Paraphrases.
Bible. English. Selections.
Bible. English. Shorthand.

Bible. O.T. Psalms. French.
Bible. O.T. Psalms. French.
Paraphrases.
Bible. O.T. Psalms. French.
Selections.
Bible. N.T. Gospels. English.
Bible. N.T. Gospels. English.
Harmonies.
Bible. N.T. Gospels. English.
Paraphrases.
Bible. N.T. Gospels. English.
Selections.
Bible. N.T. Gospels. Greek.
Bible. N.T. Gospels. Greek.
Harmonies.
Bible. N.T. Gospels. Greek.
Selections.

Detailed arrangement under each language

The details of arrangement are as follows:

- 1.) By date of imprint.
- 2.) Whenever there are several entries under the same date, entries without the name of the translation or translator precede.
- 3.) The arrangement for various named translations or translators under the same date is alphabetical.
- 4.) Whenever there are two or more entries under the same date with the same heading, the arrangement is by place of publication and publisher and by title if necessary.

Bible. N.T. English. 1933.
Bible. N.T. English. 1934.
 (London, T. Murby & Co., 1934)
Bible. N.T. English. 1934.
 (New York, E. P. Dutton, 1934)
Bible. N.T. English. 1934.
 (New York, Macmillan, 1934)
Bible. N.T. English. 1934. Moffatt.
Bible. N.T. English. 1934. Rheims.

3. WHOLE BIBLE, BY SUBJECT, A-Z.

[Although subject entries for the Whole Bible are omitted from this catalog, their relative position after the printed texts is indicated here. Subject headings for Manuscripts (1) and for any Parts of the Bible (4-125) would appear in a corresponding position following the entries involved.]

4-125. PARTS OF THE BIBLE.

The arrangement of the Parts of the Bible is that of the English authorized version. Inserted into the list of the individual books are all collective headings. Collective headings are the names of groups of books, as for instance Old Testament, Prophets, New Testament, Gospels, Epi-ties, etc. The names Old Testament and New Testament are regularly abbreviated to O.T. and N.T. respectively.

Included among the collective headings are also the names for (1) groups known primarily in scholarly literature (Hexateuch, Hagiographa, Five Scrolls, Wisdom Literature, etc.) and (2) certain frequent combinations of New Testament books (Gospels and Acts, Luke and Acts, Acts and Epistles, etc.). In this arrangement the more inclusive collective heading always precedes the less inclusive collective heading and all kinds of collective headings precede the first book included; for example:

- Bible. N.T. English. 1925.
 Bible. N.T. Gospels and Acts. English. 1925.
 Bible. N.T. Gospels. English. 1925.
 Bible. N.T. Matthew. English. 1925.
 Bible. N.T. Mark. English. 1925.
 Bible. N.T. Luke and Acts. English. 1925.
 Bible. N.T. Johannine literature. English. 1925.
 Bible. N.T. John. English. 1925.
 etc., etc.

Miscellaneous groupings of three or more single books are entered under the most appropriate collective heading. This can be illustrated especially in the case of the Minor prophets or the Epistles of Paul, e.g.

- Bible. O.T. Minor prophets. Arabic. 1902.
 Eine... Erklärung der propheten Zephania,
 Haggai und Zecharja... 1902.

- Bible. O.T. Minor prophets. English. 1925.
 Revised.
 The books of... Micah, Obadiah, Joel and Jonah... [1925]

- Bible. N.T. Epistles of Paul. Greek. 1855.
 The Epistles... to the Thessalonians,
 Galatians, Romans... 1855.

Entries for parts of a book, single chapters, or verses follow after all the cards of the whole book.

- Example: Bible. N.T. Matthew. Zulu.
 Bible. N.T. Matthew V.
 Bible. N.T. Matthew V-VII.
 Bible. N.T. Matthew XIII, 3-9.

The Apocrypha and Apocryphal books

The Apocrypha are the excess content of the Greek Septuagint version over the Hebrew Old Testament. From the Septuagint this excess was carried over to the Latin Vulgate and to all versions stemming from it as for instance the Douai. It is in part an excess over the content of individual books in the Hebrew Old Testament and in part an excess of additional books not found in the Hebrew Old Testament.

Collections of the Apocrypha are entered under Bible. O.T. Apocrypha. For individual Apocrypha the name of the book is added, e.g. Bible. O.T. Apocrypha. Judith. Because the reader of modern editions of the authorized version is unfamiliar with this material it is preferable to arrange the individual books in alphabetical order rather than in the order in which they appeared in the original authorized version of 1611.

The Apocryphal books of both the Old and New Testaments are works purporting to be written by Biblical characters or are works written in the style of the Biblical books, e.g. Psalms of Solomon, Epistle of Barnabas. Even though collections of the Apocryphal books of each testament have been published, their exact number, however, can not be determined, so that an alphabetical arrangement is required because of general unfamiliarity with much of this literature and because of the necessity of inserting into the order works not previously published separately (nos. 78 and 125 in the Table).

The entry Bible. O.T. Apocrypha and Apocryphal books is necessitated by the fact that a number of important editions and critical works cover both the Apocrypha and the Apocryphal books. This entry is inserted into the arrangement in advance of the entry for the Apocrypha (no. 59 in the Table).

Note on the inverted entries

Since 1932 entries in inverted form are included in the tracing on the cards for all parts of the Bible except the Apocrypha, Apocryphal books, and single chapters or verses. Their purpose is to bring together all like material. This guide does not indicate where these cards are inserted, but the following sample serves as a guide to their arrangement. The entries

- Bible. French. 1567. Geneva.

The excerpt ascribed to Maximus, bishop of Jerusalem, by Basilides in his Praeparatio evangelica (vii. 23), is actually derived from the De libero arbitrio Methodius of Sardaschwer, Otto. Geschichte der altchristlichen literatur. 2. and. Freiburg i. B. 1914. 2. bd., p. 168.
The translation of the Syriac version ... is based on a careful examination of that made by Dr. Cureton ... It will, however, be seen that it differs from that in many and important particulars.—note, p. 85, signed: R. B. P. & Benjamin Pinnow Pratum;

The Davis parallel Gospels; being the three synoptic Gospels and some portions of John arranged in parallel columns, with letters in the margins to aid the eye in finding parallel passages. Together with a short commentary aiming to show that the books were not written, as they are, by men who had personal knowledge of Jesus; that they had a common origin in older works of various dates and authorship; and that the accounts of the miracles, and the passages containing mention of the disciples, are of later date than the most of the balance of the books, and are of questionable authenticity. ¶ The originals ... which have been used for the reduction which illustrate this volume were exhibited, together with a volume of impressions, at the Caxton celebration held in London in 1877. This ... series of original blocks were purchased about sixty years since at Nuremberg ... They cannot be recognized clearly in any of our books, nor does the artist's mark, which appears on the 87th plate, is unknown to any bibliographer ... It is ... probable that the blocks were thrown aside and never used ... till a lapse of nearly four centuries ... These blocks were used in the production of 'A new Biblia pauperum' ... of which 375 copies were issued in 1877. ... Note by the printers.

The London edition of the present work was issued under title "A smaller Biblia pauperum" ...
